DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species I as shown in Figures 5 and 7-10;

Species II as shown in Figures 13A & 13B;

Species III as shown in Figures 27A & 27B; and

Species IV as shown in Figures 16A & 16B.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

2. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Species I corresponding to claims 2-11;
Species II corresponding to claims 12 & 13;
Species III corresponding to claims 14-18; and Species IV corresponding to claims 19 & 20.

The following claim(s) are generic: claim 1.

3. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Generic claim 1, does not present any special technical features not described in the prior art. The limitations of Claim 1 are taught by LIAMOS et al. (WO 01/33216 A1), where LIAMOS discloses a analyte sensor that has an information recognizing analyzer (p. 3, line 26 – p. 4, line 4) used with an analyzing article (p. 11, line 6-17) attached thereto (p. 12, lines 9-13), for analysis of a specific component in a sample of liquid supplied to the analyzing article (p. 11, lines 4-5), comprising: an information recognizer (1451 & 1452, Figure 16B) for recognition of information added to the analyzing article (presence or absence of conductor 1450, Figures 16A & 16B; p. 35, lines 5-13), wherein the information recognizer includes an electro-physical-quantity variable part which has different electro-physical-quantities in accordance with the information added to the analyzing article, upon attachment of the analyzing article, in the form of electrical connection between the leads when the insertion monitor contact pad is present (p. 34, lines 11-26; p. 35, line 20 – p. 36, line 2). Therefore, generic claim 1 does not contain any special technical feature not taught in the prior art. The various species presented in the instant claims have information recognizers that are independent and distinct in their structure and/or operation, and therefore lack unity of invention.
